technabb — ... That's the iXP1-500 iPad adapter, and it's only purpose is to ensure that an iPad can be charged on any USB 2.0 port. If this thing works as advertised, that means the iPad's cable is borked. And if Apple can afford to give away free bumpers for the iPhone 4's uncommon antenna problem, then Apple should also give this adapter to all iPad owners. Until then, you'll have to buy it from XMultiple for $5 (USD). via [gizmag] ...
